The Fire Hub: Firing Up the Community!

Submitted by the Communications Department and FKCH Staff

Photos by Jaky Replogle

The April 19 Grand Opening of The Fire Hub restaurant and Kendall Street Pantry was on fire! It kicked off with an invocation to the Creator by NHBP Tribal Council Secretary Christine Lanning. The Tribal drumming group, Southern Straight, then performed a Tribal Drum Song before NHBP Tribal Council Chairperson Jamie Stuck addressed all in attendance.

"The Nottawaseppi Huron Band of the Potawatomi is honored to lead this amazing community initiative," Stuck said. "We live here, we love the region and we invest in the region."

The Fire Hub is a unique, downtown restaurant concept with an adjacent food pantry to assist those less fortunate in the community, all housed in a restored historic city firehouse located on the corner of Kendall Street and Dickman Road in Battle Creek. 80 percent of profits will be pooled to benefit local charities, while 20 percent will provide maintenance capital dollars. Another major element of the project is the development of nearby Tribal lands to farm and grow vegetables, with a goal of delivering a free salad bar to students in area communities.

"Supporting the local community has always been a priority for us," Stuck said. "And today's Grand Opening is the successful collaboration of the Tribe's community focus, Chef McFarlen's vision and the dedicated efforts of the food and beverage team at FireKeepers Casino Hotel."

The opening ceremony also featured speeches by special guests including Michigan Governor Rick Snyder, Battle Creek Mayor Dave Walters, FireKeepers Vice President of Food and Beverage Michael McFarlen, and Food Bank of South Central Michigan Executive Director Patty Parker.

"The Fire Hub will help meet basic needs for people and is a great example of community revitalization and working together to help one another," Snyder said.

"Strong, vibrant communities require teamwork and a shared commitment to a brighter future."

The restaurant will be open Tuesday to Saturday from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. It features an upscale, yet affordable, menu with a delicious selection of freshly made breads and muffins, breakfast items, soups, salads, hot and cold sandwiches, an array of pizzas and delicious desserts.

"I'm a very proud Tribal Member to be a part of this," NHBP Tribal Member Diane Potter said. "It's the Tribal Community feeding and helping other communities. To go through and see what they've done – it's amazing!"

Each pizza features fresh ingredients.

NHBP Tribal Member Juanita Sandoval browses The Fire Hub's fine selections.

NHBP Tribal Council Chairperson Jamie Stuck addresses the crowd in attendance.

The Fire Hub is housed in a restored historic city firehouse located on the corner of Kendall Street and Dickman Road in Battle Creek.

NHBP Participates in New Pilot Program

Submitted by Communications Specialist Brittany VanSnepton

The Indian Health Service (IHS) has announced a new pilot program to integrate trauma-informed care at IHS and Tribal facilities. The program is a nine month project that is in collaboration with 10 Tribally-run sites across the U.S. Each site will receive assistance virtually through a series of webinars, assistance calls, virtual learning communities, two in-person training sessions and metrics collection and analysis.

IHS is working in association with the Pediatric Integrated Care Collaborative (PICC). PICC is a collaboration within the Johns Hopkins Center for Mental Health Services in Pediatric Primary Care which works with a variety of health professionals and families. PICC ultimately seeks to grow the availability and quality of services associated with child trauma by incorporating health services, both behavioral and physical, in Native communities.

NHBP has been selected as one of the pilot program's 10 sites. Each location will be using a "learning collaborative" method which implements new processes that will later be evaluated to identify what does and doesn't work for that particular Tribal Community.

The communities will identify methods of providing trauma-informed care through a variety of different approaches including primary and secondary prevention, screening for trauma-related problems or treating trauma-related problems.

"We are very proud and excited to be selected to take part in this collaborative," said NHBP Clinical Manager Nicole Edson. "We are always looking for best practice initiatives to bring the highest quality care to the Tribal Community."

To learn more about this program, please contact the Health and Human Services Department.

Red Hot Rewards Club Supervisor: Kris Fisher

Submitted by FireKeepers Casino Hotel

My first position as a FireKeepers employee was as a Red Hot Rewards Club Representative in July of 2009. I have held various positions throughout the years, such as a Server/Cashier at Café 24/7 and as a Security Officer.

Though I gained excellent experience in the different departments I was employed, I decided that my true passion was in marketing. I transferred back to the Rewards Club in May of 2015, and was promoted to Supervisor the following October.

As a Supervisor for Red Hot Rewards, I help oversee the development and training of the Club's many representatives. I also assist guests with resolving casino and rewards card issues, issuing comps, helping set up and organize concerts, and giveaways. The Rewards Club not only runs the rewards program but also schedules buses, reserves rooms and assists guests with any questions or concerns in the Customer Care Center (CCC).

Since first being employed with FKCH I have also held various jobs outside

POW WOW PREP: CHPO WORKSHOPS

Submitted by Communications Specialist Brittany VanSnepton

Photos by Emilee Guzak, Sara Moore and Brittany VanSnepton

In preparation for this year's annual Pow Wow, the Cultural and Historic Preservation Office (CHPO) held a series of workshops that featured different styles of Native dance and Regalia traditions that ranged from Women's and Men's Traditional Dance to Ribbon Skirt Making.

"For each of those classes we wanted to bring in a dancer that dances that style and has a story to tell about it," Cultural Specialist Mon-ee Zapata said. "When you dance, you should dance in the style of who you are and what you want to represent."

Zapata and CHPO Administrative Assistant Danielle

Pfeifer taught the Ribbon Skirt Making Workshop and were accompanied by seamstresses Carol North and Judy Robinson.

"Wearing a skirt is to honor yourself as a Native woman. Our Ancestors look down and this is how they know who we are. They look at how beautiful their Native women are in their skirts," Zapata said. "Our skirts should be just long enough to touch the earth, to have that connection to the medicines by touching the ground."

Zapata went on to explain that the color of the ribbon and everything else chosen for each skirt is significant.

Elaborate beadwork on display at workshops.

Tribal Members Randi McKinney and Carol North cut fabric for Regalia.

Culture Specialist Mon-ee Zapata shows the different types of dresses for Women's Traditional Dance.

Attendees study Regalia with fine details.

Tribal Member Carol North measures Tribal youth Aurora Ansley for a skirt.

Tribal Member Amanda Chivis admires the artwork of Tribal Regalia.

When someone wears their Regalia, it should reflect their people. Regalia should be one's clan colors or a pattern that means something special to the person who will be wearing the skirt or other form of attire.

During the Women's Traditional Dance Workshop, Zapata shared stories about why the Potawatomi style is recognized for its modesty, particularly with the use of leggings in their dances. She also elaborated on why flashier beadwork is only seen in competitive Pow Wows and why most Native girls start off with a shawl and then move to wearing a Jingle Dress.

"When you don't come from a traditional background, you don't know about these teachings and when you have a desire to create Regalia, you want to learn how to do it respectfully and with honor," NHBP Tribal Member Cherie Chivis said. "That's why I'm here."

NHBP Tribal Members also attended the workshop on Men's Traditional Dance where NHBP Tribal Member Kevin Harris Sr. was the teacher. According to Harris, the Men's Traditional Dance is the oldest known Tribal dance.

"It goes back to the beginning – a dance for hunting, battle and love," Harris said. "A dance to celebrate."

The workshop elaborated on why Natives have Pow Wows and why the dances take place. Harris also showed attendees different forms of Regalia while he explained the history behind each piece.

"I feel like men should not only drum but they should dance, too," NHBP Tribal Member Langston Day said, after attending the Men's Traditional Dance Workshop. "It keeps the customs alive and our traditional ways relevant today."

To learn more about Potawatomi culture, please contact CHPO.

Tribal Member Linda Rice and Judy Robinson work together to create a skirt.

Diabetes PATH is a workshop for adults with diabetes, their family, friends and caregivers. The workshop is open to all NHBP clinic patients and their families, and NHBP employees. It does not matter how long you have had diabetes or how well or how poorly you think you are doing with your diabetes. Anyone with diabetes can attend.

By attending, you will learn to manage your diabetes through education, nutrition, exercise and medical therapies. These techniques will help you take charge of your own health, be more independent and communicate better with your health care team. Bring a spouse, friend or caregiver to class each week. Individuals with any type of chronic disease are also encouraged to attend.

LAUNCH has received approval from Tribal Council to proceed with implementing a Born Learning Trail at the Pine Creek Indian Reservation. The trail is a fun, easy way for parents, grandparents and caregivers to use outings to build their child's learning that will be critical for their school and eventual workforce readiness. A series of expert-approved signs will guide adults on specific ways to create learning games outdoors and suggest tips to use at home.

Learning happens everywhere a child goes, but parents, grandparents and caregivers may not always know how to support that learning. Research has found that many parents and caregivers undervalue their role in preparing young children for school. Some parents and caregivers don't know exactly what actions to take, which leads them to feel like they don't have the time to do what's needed.

This won't be the case at NHBP! When mom, dad, aunts, uncles or grandparents take their young child to the Pine Creek Recreational Area, now they'll be able to play fun games together that will help the child come to school ready to succeed. All because NHBP is going to work together with families in the NHBP Community to turn excursions into fun, learning moments by creating an outdoor, interactive, early learning trail! The Born Learning Trail will be a series of learning activities that any adult can play with young children. Based on the latest early childhood research and approved by national early learning experts through United Way of America, the Born Learning Trail is designed to help adults interact with children to boost language and literacy development. It will also help caregivers understand how to best support early learning in outdoor, everyday moments.

There are 10 signs on the trail, each including activities such as Watch! Learn! Stop! Play! The activities encourage caregivers to follow the child's lead, building the child's curiosity and confidence, which reinforces their learning. Other activities highlight the need to pay attention to children in order to help them feel special and secure; talking and singing to teach them words and prepare them for reading; moving to exercise a child's body and mind; storytelling to grow a child's ability to imagine and listen; looking at the world in a new way to help children get ready for reading and math; and exploring the things around them to help children learn how to solve problems. We hope the Mno Penojéwen Born Learning Trail will help NHBP do even more to get kids off to the right start! We are reaching out to you, to partner in this exciting and fun activity. You have been identified as having a vital link to the Community and a critical influence on the importance of early childhood learning as it impacts school readiness and success, workforce development and the future of NHBP!

Flap Jack Friday Fun!

Submitted by Communications Specialist Brittany VanSnepton
Photos by Emilee Guzak

Flap jacks were flipping and syrup tops were popping as NHBP Tribal Members, from near and far, gathered together at the Pine Creek Community Center to participate in the 11th annual Flap Jack Friday sponsored by the Environmental Department. The building was lined with red-checkered table cloths and filled up quickly with hungry patrons who collected a free raffle ticket at the door.

Southern Straight sang a Welcome Song before NHBP Tribal Council Treasurer Tony Day greeted all in attendance. Environmental Director John Rodwan and Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians Tribal Member Bill Vandegriff shared some thoughts on the maple syrup making process and NHBP Tribal Member Gwynn Nugent said the meal's blessing before everyone dug in.

"I love the maple syrup and I love seeing and visiting with people that I don't normally get to see on a daily basis," NHBP Tribal Member Sandy Butcher said. "It's all so inviting."

As everyone ate and caught up with one another, the Membership Services Department went around dressed up in egg, bacon and pancake costumes selling 50/50 raffle tickets to win prizes from the Giveaway Table. FireKeepers Casino Hotel staff provided the meal and made a giant pancake that everyone awed over as they passed by.

Throughout the entirety of the event, the Cultural and Historic Preservation Office and the Environmental Department had booths set up to share the history of the Tribe and sell maple syrup.

"Flap Jack Friday brings everyone together and shows all the hard work everyone's done to make the maple syrup," NHBP Tribal Member Georgia Steiner said, as the event ended with its annual auction and a Traveling Song.

To learn more about the Maple Syrup Program, please contact John Rodwan at jrodwan@nhbpi.com or 269.704.7048.

FKCH in the Top Five Gaming Operations

Submitted by Communications Specialist Brittany VanSnepton

Photos by Jaky Replogle and Amber Ballard

The editorial advisory board for Tribal Government Gaming has ranked NHBP's FireKeepers Casino Hotel as one of the top five properties in Indian Country. According to the magazine article, FKCH's initiative to invest in non-gaming amenities has prepared them for future competitors while also making them an original go-to destination that will last for many generations.

One such investment that really stuck out, was FKCH's three year sponsorship of the June 2016 NASCAR Sprint Race, which is now called the FireKeepers Casino 400. This Michigan International Speedway investment has placed FKCH on the fast track to historic success, in ways that would have left other investments in the dust.

"Naming rights to a NASCAR race is the culmination of over seven years of growth and success at FireKeepers," said NHBP Tribal Council Chairperson Jamie Stuck. "We are a premier operator and this history making event generates the awareness our property deserves."

But Tribal Government Gaming didn't rank FKCH as top five for merely one out-of-the-box effort – but for many. Also highlighted in the magazine, was FKCH's newest initiative to give back to the local community, the opening of their recent investment, The Fire Hub.

"This is one of the most unique community initiatives in the history of gaming, as we are saving a historic downtown firehouse, creating a great bakery and restaurant in that have adjoining space for a dignified food bank to support those less fortunate," Stuck said.

Ranked as the top casino in northwest Indiana by the Fort Wayne daily newspaper, FKCH only continues to draw crowds from surrounding Midwestern states, among other regions. To learn more about FireKeepers Casino Hotel and their latest investments, please visit firekeeperscasino.com for more information.

Baby Celebration

Submitted by Communications Department | Photos by Sara Moore

The Pine Creek Community Center was bright and sunny on a beautiful spring day as families with little ones poured through the doors to help welcome the newly born babies to the Community. Every year the Health and Human Services Department hosts a Baby Celebration to help celebrate all the children born in the last 12 months. During this year's celebration the NHBP Community welcomed more than 20 new babies.

The event included drum, food, crafts, raffles and fun throughout the day. NHBP Tribal Council Sergeant-at-Arms Homer A. Mandoka gave a nice welcome and Doreece Gaines provided drum and song throughout the day. NHBP Tribal Elder Paula Keith helped with the ceremonial wrapping of the babies, while Amy Foerster and Frank Wesaw Sr. participated with baby Rachel who was wrapped in a blanket handmade by the Tribal Elders.

NHBP Tribal Member A.J Fox and Brianna Hebner attended the event with their newborn Hunter Fox. "We are super excited to have baby Hunter welcomed into the NHBP family," Fox said. "This is a special tradition that is so important to be a part of."

The event continued with a craft where new parents could paint their newborns hands or feet and stamp them on a thin piece of leather. New parents, Ana and NHBP Tribal Member Julius Harris, were able to take home a nice foot print souvenir of their six-month-old son, Christiano.

Beatrice Jackson of the Tlingit Nation provided the group with a visual rendition of the Seven Fires of Creation story. This story featured audience interaction, props, lights, sound and a wonderful teaching.

The day ended with the planting of Cedar trees at the NHBP Memorial Garden. Each family planted a new tree to represent each new baby within the winding trails of the garden. NHBP Tribal Member Haley Irwin and new daughter Mazie could be seen planting their Cedar tree as a team.

For more information on future Health and Human Services events, please visit the NHBP Members Only website.
